Conscience and Vaccination

To any one to whom figures mean anything or who is willing to accept the absolutely undoubted results of experience, vaccination as a preventive of smallpox is an established fact. It is the good of the whole people to be regarded as a principle of disease prevention as it is in other matters of government, then vaccination should be universally compulsory. That it is not so is a reflection on the good sense and good judgment of enlightened people. In such a well-governed country as Great Britain, where vaccination may almost be said to have originated, or at least where it was placed on a definite basis by the discovery of Jenner, vaccination is still a matter of conscience. That is, any one who asserts that he has conscientious objections to vaccination may be permitted to set aside the regulations of the health authorities, which would protect everybody from a loathsome disease like smallpox. As set forth in a recent number of the London Times in reply to a parliamentary inquiry, Mr. Burns, president of the local government board, furnishes figures which show—thanks, perhaps, to the intelligent agitation of the anti-vaccinationists—that the percentage of persons exempted from vaccination on account of conscientious objections as compared with the total number of b. v. s. from 1907 to 1912 increased from 6.3 per cent in the former year to 17.3 per cent in 1908, and thence rapidly to 31.6 per cent in 1912. The tolerance of a privilege which permits one out of three persons practically to nullify the effect of a proved preventive health measure is an absurdity in this day, in the opinion of the Journal of the American Medical Association, and will merely result in a large measure in return to the horrible smallpox conditions of former days in Great Britain. The prevalence of smallpox in the United States during the past year is no doubt due to the absence of strict regulation in regard to vaccination, the lax enforcement of regulations either provided or the total ignoring of these regulations. The matter of vaccination should nowhere depend on any sort of objections of an individual, but should be determined solely by scientific and statistical knowledge.

Fort Shafter Notes

(Special Star-Bulletin Correspondence)

FORT SHAFTER, March 23.—Yesterday morning word was brought in to post that one of the enlisted men of D company had fallen and met with an accident in the high hills back of the target range. The rumor went about that the soldier had broken a leg in his fall. It developed later that the accident was not so severe as at first reported as the man had but fractured one of the small bones of the ankle. He was, however, unable to make his way back to the garrison even with the assistance of the two men who were with him. It appears that Corporal Denham and Privates Price and Duncan had started out very early yesterday to indulge in mountain climbing as their Sunday diversion, taking as their objective point the high peak directly back of the target range. When the little party had proceeded about one mile on their way and while working up a particularly rough section of the gulch, Duncan fell over a small sheer bank and in alighting fractured the bone and generally damaged his ankle so that movement was impracticable. Sending Price into the post with news of the accident, Corporal Denham remained with the injured man until a strong detail from D company under Lieutenant Lyman with a stretcher could arrive to transport the disabled soldier to the hospital. The detail had some difficulty in locating the scene of the accident since Price was unable to recall the exact spot in the gulch where the fall had occurred and Corporal Denham had remained with the crippled man and was therefore not in view until the searching party was fairly on top of him. The stretcher party reached the hospital about 5 o'clock without further accident.

The band of the 2d Infantry with a detail of field musicians will be sent in to Honolulu on the morning of the 25th to take part in an escort of honor for Brigadier-General Macomb, who will take steamer that day for the mainland en route for his new post of duty at the war college at Washington. The main body of the escort of honor will be composed of coast artillery troops under Col. William C. Rafferty of that corps. This selection of troops has been made to mark the fact that General Macomb was before his promotion to the grade of general officer an officer in the artillery arms of the service. The escort will form at the intersection of King and Bishop streets and proceed at the proper time to the steamer dock where the distinguished officer will embark for the mainland. It is with regret that the land service will say goodbye to General Macomb upon his departure as his conduct of affairs while in command on Oahu has always been marked by high devotion to duty and great fairness in his dealings with all of his subordinates whether high or low in rank or grade.

It is certain that the coast artillery is envied by its brothers of the infantry or other branch of the mobile army in the selection that gave it the honor to escort the late commander of the department from his headquarters to the steamer dock on the occasion of his departure.

The quarantine in the case of the family of Lieutenant Mathews of the 2d Infantry has been removed by reason of the danger of infection of visitors or others having passed. The case of measles proved to have been but of mild type and has entirely recovered.

Not to be outdone by A company in the matter of amusement room for the enlisted men of the organization Company C under Captain Walter H. Johnson has also constructed such place of resort. As a matter of fact the latter company was the first to build an amusement room adjacent to the company barracks and the dimensions of the room exceed those of A company's structure by a considerable amount, being 22 by 44.

Lieut. Col. Atkinson and Major Williams went out to Schofield Barracks yesterday to visit with old acquaintances in that garrison. The trip was made by motor and as the return was not made until late in the afternoon both officers were considerably impressed with the decided difference in temperature they found existing between the Schofield Barracks and Fort Shafter situations.

Upon the recommendation of their respective company commanders the below scheduled appointments have been made in the 2d Infantry under orders from regimental headquarters the past week:

Company C—Private Okey P. Kyle, to be corporal, vice Kelly, discharged.
Company G—Corporal Arthur F. Whitaker, to be sergeant, vice Mowery, discharged, and Private Carl McManis, to be corporal, vice Whitaker, promoted.
Company I—Corporal Robert C. Gamble, to be sergeant, vice McCusker, discharged, and Private Porroist C. Murphy, to be corporal, vice Gamble, promoted.

Hori, a Japanese, owner of a perambulating cake and candy wagon, called upon the police to assist him in a claim for restitution to the amount of $100 for damage done the conveyance through a collision with a city hack. The Japanese declared that he was keeping to the right hand side of Mauna Kea street yesterday when his outfit was capsize and the vehicle wrecked. The police are today seeking the hackman.

Isaac Cockett was removed to the hospital today suffering from several bruises about the head, alleged to have been caused by a fall to a sidewalk near the corner of Bishop and King streets.

Antone Rodriguez, said to have been at the wheel of a heavy touring car, is alleged to have run down Frank Fedo, driver of a small car. The smaller car is reported to have been considerably damaged.

Tom Blackwell, chauffeur for ex-Governor George R. Carter, is charged with an assault upon a Japanese named Nakaye. It is alleged that Blackwell met the Japanese near the corner of Wilber avenue and Punahou street happening there at a time when C. Lopez and the Japanese were engaged in a wordy dispute. Blackwell is charged with having injected himself into the affray.

A dozen Hawaiians and Filipinos, who made the welkin ring with what the police declare was "a loud and disturbing noise," were released when brought before District Magistrate Monsarrat this morning. They were cautioned against further indulgence in midnight joy rides through the downtown and residential streets.

Special License Inspector Fennell made two arrests at Camp No. 2 yesterday, with the result that the defendants were arraigned this morning and were given suspended sentences of 13 months. Fennell and the officers confiscated a quantity of liquor.

Porto Ricans, Filipinos and Hawaiians, to the number of 12, were fined $5 each by District Magistrate Monsarrat this morning. The delegation was charged with gambling in Mannaia park.

"One difficulty that confronts the court in dealing with these cases is the fact that the defendants when found guilty have no funds with which to pay their fines," commented District Magistrate Monsarrat at the conclusion of a hearing in which several Filipinos and Porto Ricans were charged with gambling. A raid had been made at Camp No. 2 by men from Captain McDuffie's department. "The public parks are always in need of attention, and the men can be kept steadily employed there," was a suggestion from Prosecuting Attorney Brown. Each defendant was called upon to pay a fine of $5. Not having the money they will serve out the sentence at the city and county jail.

Houlton, Me., for its size is a banner town for both lawyers and physicians. There are located there 12 members of the legal profession and 13 medical men. The population is 6,815.

PROGRESS MADE IN TRIAL OF BERT BOWER

Mrs. D. B. Oldbury Continues on Stand and Confirms Her Previous Testimony

Considerable progress was made this morning in the examining of witnesses in the trial of George A. (Bert) Bower in the United States district court, on a statutory charge. Six witnesses in all were on the stand to testify for the prosecution, concerning the relations alleged to have existed between the defendant and Victoria Mortensen during a period extending from November, 1912, to the month of March, or later, of the following year.

Mrs. D. B. Oldbury, who lives on Prospect street directly across from the home of Mrs. Garvie-Evans, and who was on the stand at the adjournment of court Friday afternoon, continued her testimony this morning, confirming her former evidence concerning the date that she witnessed what she termed "a disgusting osculatory demonstration" between Bower and the girl in an automobile which stood all one afternoon across from her home. She said it was sometime in February of last year, or possibly in March.

Mrs. Mary C. Cuning, a teacher in the public schools, who is also a neighbor to Mrs. Evans, testified to having seen Bower call at the Evans place on various occasions, and also to the kissing-see which Mrs. Oldbury described. Mrs. Cuning said that this happened in March, 1913. She described it as so disgusting that she would have called the police except for the thought that she would be mixed up in a disagreeable police court investigation.

On cross-examination the witness stated that in the first trial of the case she had been unable to positively identify Bower, but that since the new trial began she had become positive of the identity of the defendant with the man who had so often visited the Mortensen girl. She had seen Bower, she said, in company with his attorney, Leon M. Straus, call at the Evans place yesterday afternoon. She further stated in answer to a question of Attorney Straus, that since she had become certain of the identity of Bower she had called up District Attorney McCann, and asked to be excused as a witness because she knew that Mr. Straus would make it very unpleasant for her on the stand. To which intention the attorney in question made vigorous denial.

Mrs. Alden T. Speare, another resident of Prospect street, testified to having seen the defendant assist the Mortensen girl into the automobile in a "vulgar, sensual" manner. She had watched the performance from her window. The calls of Bower at the house had continued from November, 1912, till about the following March, she said. On cross-examination, Mrs. Speare admitted that she had had a few words with Mrs. Evans on one occasion, and that they were not on each other's calling lists.

Hans Mortenson, father of the prosecuting witness, who is a machinist and lives in Manoa valley, stated that he had been introduced to Bower in December, 1912, by his stepdaughter, Mrs. Garvie-Evans. On May 6th following he had called Bower into his house, where he had called on Victoria, and informed him that he had been advised that he (Bower) was a married man. Bower had denied this, saying that he had been divorced. The witness had threatened to see Mrs. Bower about this, but had never done so. He had been told of Bower's being married by Chas. H. Rose and by Mrs. Evans.

Charles H. Rose, deputy sheriff, on the witness stand, told of Bower having called at his house and asked him to induce Mrs. Evans to persuade her father not to investigate Bower's marital status, under an implied threat of exposing Mrs. Evans. Rose stated that he had replied that he had nothing to do with the matter, and had let it drop.

Alice Birt, who lives on Kaplan street directly across from the Evans place, testified that she had been introduced to Bower by Victoria, who had brought him over to her home. After Bower had been refused the privilege of calling at the Evans home she stated that he frequently met the girl on Prospect street, and that the two had gotten into the habit of coming into the yard of her home and sitting on the lawn, after dark in the evening. The witness didn't know how long they were in the habit of staying because she and her sister would leave them at their bedtime. This she testified happened many times, and her mother finally objected to these visits, fearing that her daughters would be mistaken for the Mortensen girl.

The Birt girl was still on the stand at the time court dismissed for the noon recess.

member maintains many schools and hospitals. Mr. and Mrs. Guse, missionaries for the Methodist-Episcopal church, have spent the last 10 years in Northern India, and are returning to the mainland for a year's vacation. Mr. Guse explained this morning that Christianity in India now is making fast headway and that the outlook is bright for a still greater increase. Mr. Guse and his wife are in charge of a separate station, and, with their assistants, conduct various phases of evangelistic work, including Bible classes. The mass meeting movement, he explained, is now one of the features of American missionary work in India.

The population of Mr. Guse's district is about 500,000 persons. During the interview he made the interesting statement that his district alone now maintains 125 orphanages, institutions which are in constant demand, he said. He stated that F. W. Wilson, an American missionary at Delhi and originator of the mass meeting movement in India, will pass through Honolulu probably on the next Mongolia.

The members of the missionary party spent yesterday and this morning on a sightseeing tour of the city, by sympathies, extended by friends and orders of Masons, Knights of Pythias, Eagles and Eastern Star, in the time night they attended services in the several churches.

ministration and expressed deep regret that he has decided to sever his connection with the institution.

"The ten years of his administration have been steady progress," said one of them, "and it will be exceedingly difficult to find an educator and executive to replace him. He has given valued service which we highly appreciate and it will be a loss to the entire community when he leaves Honolulu for the east. However, he feels a strong desire to settle in the eastern part of the United States and we have accepted his resignation and must now find a new principal."

It can be stated that no successor for Mr. Horne is as yet even tentatively selected, the resignation being still so recent that the trustees have not been able to give the matter any extended consideration.

A meeting of the members of the Kahala Improvement Club has been called for 4:30 o'clock this afternoon in the stock exchange rooms.

CARD OF THANKS.

Mrs. Frederick Waldron and family wish to offer their sincerest thanks in appreciation of the many kind and sympathetic friends and orders of Masons, Knights of Pythias, Eagles and Eastern Star, in the time night they attended services in the several churches.
